

At Cornerstone Speech Therapy, your family is at the very heart of what we do. While we are experts at speech and language development, we know that you are the expert on your child. We incorporate your family into our services so that you are provided with the strategies needed to help your child reach their greatest potential. Your family is our cornerstone and everything we do starts with you.

What to Expect

Prior to beginning therapy services, our Family Service Coordinator will meet with you for an intake visit in your home, our office, or in the community. At that time, you will receive information about our practice, as well as information about your assigned therapist.

Therapy sessions can be held in your home, our office, or in the community, and will target priorities established by your family. At Cornerstone, it is important to us that your family plays a role in the therapy process. We offer a variety of approaches, all focusing on integrating therapeutic strategies into your family's daily routines and activities.

Following each session, you will receive a progress note that highlights strategies and activities that were discussed and practiced during the session. We want you to feel confident helping your child between visits.
